

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 A stent has a plurality of cells disposed about the circumference of the stent, with at least one cell having a plurality of struts that are connected together to form the cell. At least one strut has a portion that compensates for foreshortening of the struts during expansion of the stent.

2025-03-04 10:54:33